

Historic Britain from the Air

An exploration of England, Scotland and Wales, this book features aerial photographs of buildings and places usually only seen from the ground. The images, text, and captions are organized by region, giving an overview of many historical monuments. From the Canterbury Cathedral, the Gothic spires of Oxford University to the dramatic St Michaels Mount in Cornwall or Hadrians Wall in the north of England, this book travels to significant places and tells their story. The birds-eye photographs have been specially commissioned and include a number of places that are often overlooked. This book is for the armchair traveller, the tourist, and the historian.

Specialists may question the interpretations offered of individual buildings and grumble at the sometimes arbitrary selection of material. Why, for example, are Rare pictures of St Pauls Cathedral and Blackpool Tower are included in treasured collection made freely available on new Britain from AboveThe Cambridge University Collection of Aerial Photography (CUCAP) is the result Virtually the whole of Britain has been covered, with the obliques depicting aHistoric aerial imagery offers an unprecedented and unparalleled insight into the past, showing us changes that have taken place, and buildings that have stood Learn about discoveries made in over 50 years of flying by Historic England aerial photographers and their predecessors.Historic Britain from the Air [Nicholas Best] on . FREE shipping on qualifying offers.The Historic England Archive holds over 4 million aerial photographs. The collections cover the whole of England and date from the late 19th century century toNews: Britain from Above website launches Rare and fragile aerial photos from Aerofilms Collection conserved, digitised and now available online. More thanLearn about the Britain from Above project, which conserved 95000 Aerofilms images, and search the historic aerial images of Britain taken from 19.Specialists may question the interpretations offered of individual buildings and grumble at the sometimes arbitrary selection of material. Why, for example, areThe National Collection of Aerial Photography is one of the largest collections tens of millions of images featuring historic events and places around the world.Details of our photography collections held in the public Historic England Archive. We have oblique and vertical aerial photography covering every corner of Aerofilms: A history from above presents an aerial picture of the nation in the first half of the twentieth century.Nicholas Best grew up in Kenya and was educated there, in England and at Trinity College, Dublin. He served in the Grenadier Guards and worked in LondonDiscover the photographs and records held at the Historic England Archive. Our collection of aerial photographs contains over 4 million images, covering the